Welcome to the 103rd annual Virginia Library Association. Hundreds of us are gathered here to learn from one another, to come away inspired with new ideas for our libraries from keynote speakers and vendors—and to have fun!

This year’s conference theme, Libraries: Champions of Democracy, is particularly appropriate. In this important election year, I think it’s valuable to reflect on the many ways that libraries are the true heart of our community, the core institution in a democratic society.

As the election heats up, voters turn to their school, public, or academic library to find a range of opinions and information. Where else but a library can you find access to minority or unpopular viewpoints along with the mainstream? The public library champions democracy in welcoming everyone and by providing resources and programming that build the information literacy essential in a participatory democracy in the 21st century. School and academic libraries help our young people to build the critical thinking skills essential to an informed electorate. Libraries of all types are non-partisan forums for the free exchange of ideas.

This year’s program offerings focus on democracy in many ways. We hope that the range of programs at this conference will help you come away with innovative ways to provide these vital services to our communities.

We continue the VLA tradition with a great conference—over 50 concurrent sessions, the VLA scholarship basket raffle, the Jefferson Cup luncheon, and dozens of vendors. Be sure to visit the exhibit hall during the no-conflict times we’ve built into the schedule. Remember, their support makes it possible for us to have a successful conference.

Don’t miss the fun at the Thursday night social. Join us for a pre-election party of presidential proportions, as George Washington and Thomas Jefferson make a guest appearance! Music, drinks, snacks, and games will liven up the evening. Don’t forget to bring hats, pins, and other memorabilia from campaigns past. The person wearing the oldest campaign paraphernalia will be our guest of honor!

Williamsburg is a great gathering place with wonderful restaurants, outlets to shop, great libraries to tour, and history galore. During your stay in Williamsburg, you’ll find special touring opportunities to visit these many aspects of this community where democracy came alive in the new world.

I am delighted to welcome you to historic Williamsburg and your Association’s 2008 conference.

Wednesday Tours

Jamestown Settlement Tour

Wednesday 1:00 PM

A group tour of the Jamestown Settlement is planned for Wednesday afternoon. The cost for the tour is $14.15 per person and will be payable on site. Please sign up for the tour on the conference registration form.

“Life at Jamestown” explores the early struggles, economic ventures and daily life of the Jamestown colony through hands-on demonstrations, such as open-hearth cooking and 17th-century military life. This tour is two-and-a-half hours and is led by trained guides, highlighting each museum’s exhibition galleries and outdoor living-history areas. This hands-on, inquiry-oriented, curriculum-based tour encourages participants to handle reproduction objects, interact with costumed historical interpreters, and explore museum galleries and re-create outdoor settings.

The group will meet in the hotel lobby at 1:00 p.m. on Wednesday for car pooling.

Tour of Colonial Williamsburg’s John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Library

Wednesday 4:00 pm

Colonial Williamsburg’s John D. Rockefeller Jr. Library supports and encourages research on 17th- and 18th-century colonial America, the Revolutionary War era and early republic, including the colonial Chesapeake, African-American studies, the decorative and folk arts, archaeology, architectural history and historic preservation. The general collections comprise more than 75,000 books, while the rare book collection contains more than 12,000 volumes. The manuscript holdings—more than 50,000 in all—include Patrick Henry’s “Stamp Act Resolves” and correspondence of 18th-century Williamsburg residents. These collections are enhanced by full-text online 18th-century books and newspapers. The Digital History Center (housed in the Rockefeller Library) is developing three major projects: eWilliamsburg, an interactive map-based tool for studying and analyzing the town; Virtual Williamsburg, an ongoing project that will recreate individual structures and sections of the town at the time of the Revolution in 3D computer graphics; and a new website devoted to Williamsburg and the American Revolution that will be launched in 2009.

The tour of this state-of-the-art facility will last approximately 60 minutes and is limited to 25 people. Those taking the tour will leave from the lobby of the Marriott Hotel at 3:40 p.m. to carpool to the library.

The Fun and Facts of Early Literacy: Communicating with Parents through Storytimes

Room 18
Full day (includes lunch)

Enhance your storytimes by incorporating information for parents/caregivers into them. The presentation includes early literacy research, examples of the development of each of the six early literacy skills for newborn to five-year-olds, techniques for planning storytimes that reach adults and children and specific ideas for doing so. Why address parents and caregivers? How does this approach change your storytimes? How can your early literacy enhanced storytimes become a catalyst for change in your community? Information presented is based on the Every Child Ready to Read @ your library project. There will be hands-on practice developing a literacy-enhanced storytime by building on what they already do in storytimes.

Assignment: Each participant brings (1) a written plan or outline of one storytime you enjoy; (2) the items for the storytime (books, words to songs/rhymes, handout if available, etc.) It can be handwritten.

Presenter Saroj Ghoting is an Early Childhood Literacy Consultant. She is currently a consultant for the Public Library Association and the Association for Library Service to Children of the American Library Association on the Every Child Ready to Read @ your library® early literacy initiative. She presents early literacy training and information sessions at national, regional, and state conferences, and training for library staff and their partners. She is a coauthor of Early Literacy Storytimes @ your library: Partnering with Caregivers for Success published by ALA Editions. This book applies the information from the Every Child Ready to Read @ your library workshops to the storytime setting.

In over 25 years as a children’s librarian in several Maryland library systems, her broad experience ranges from doing storytimes for children ages newborn through six-years-old to training library staff in programming. She has presented workshops for parents and child care providers on ways to share books and language with young children, and has trained library staff to present similar workshops.

As the Early Childhood Services Coordinator for Montgomery County (MD) Public Libraries, Saroj developed partnerships with government agencies, businesses, early childhood organizations, and the faith communities. She also managed the Every Child Ready to Read Project @ your library® for Montgomery County, one of 14 national demonstration sites.

Presenter: Saroj Ghoting, Early Childhood Literacy Consultant

• Learn and practice community organizing and mobilization tools, techniques and tactics.

• Learn how to target issues, supporters and opponents.

• Develop specific strategies to overcome obstacles in order to strengthen your relationships with potential and/or current partners, advocates and community groups.

Presenter: Elaina Norlin, Director of Strategic Initiatives for the Knowledge is Power Group
Opening General Session    Thursday, 10:00 AM    Auditorium

Speaker: Dahlia Lithwick

Dahlia Lithwick is a senior editor and legal correspondent for Slate.com where she writes and edits the columns “Supreme Court Dispatches” and “Jurisprudence.” She has covered the Microsoft trial, Bush v Gore, the John Roberts and Sam Alito confirmations and other legal issues.

Ms. Lithwick was awarded the Online News Association’s award for online Supreme Court commentary in 2001, and again in 2005 for a torture series she coauthored for Slate. In 2005 she was voted by the readers of Legal Affairs magazine as one of the 20 most influential legal thinkers in America. She received a B.A degree in English from Yale University in 1990 and a J.D degree from Stanford Law School in 1996. She lives in Charlottesville, Virginia, with her husband and two small sons.

In 2005, Dahlia Lithwick was voted one of the 20 most influential legal thinkers in America by the readers of Legal Affairs Magazine.
Speaker: Woody Holton

Woody Holton is an associate professor at the University of Richmond, where he teaches early American history. His book Unruly Americans and the Origins of the Constitution was a 2007 National Book Award Nonfiction Finalist and a finalist for the George Washington Book Prize, which honors work that explores the Revolutionary era. His previous book, Forced Founders: Indians, Debtors, Slaves and the Making of the American Revolution in Virginia, garnered much praise from the academic community. He received a residential fellowship from the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities, the Merle Curti Social History Award from the Organization of American Historians, and the Fraunces Tavern Museum Book Award from the New York Sons of the Revolution. His work has been included in the Organization of American Historians’ Best American History Essays 2006, and his articles and reviews have appeared in American Historical Review, Journal of American History, Reviews in American History, William and Mary Quarterly, Journal of Southern History, among others. He has been awarded the Guggenheim Fellowship for 2008–2009 to support his work on a biography of Abigail Adams.

Holton joined the University of Richmond’s history faculty in 2000. He previously taught at Bloomsburg University in Pennsylvania. Before he went into teaching, Holton directed numerous campaigns and was founding director of the environmental advocacy group “Clean Up Congress.” He now lives in Virginia with his wife, Dr. Gretchen Schoel, and their daughter, Beverly.

2008 VLA Awards

Friends of the Library Award: Friends of the Virginia Beach Public Library

The Friends of the Virginia Beach Public Library is comprised of volunteers whose purpose is to promote the mission and services of the Virginia Beach Public Library through advocacy, financial, and programming support. The organization’s volunteers run the Friends Book Shop, which sells weeded and donated materials as a fundraiser for library programs such as the Summer Reading Program and National Library Week events. The friends group also helps to fund Virginia Beach Ready to Learn, which is a community resource that promotes positive early childhood experiences and increases awareness about the importance of early learning through various programming events. In addition to sponsoring events for the Virginia Beach community, the Friends group also supports the library with staff development opportunities and the creation of the Irwin Berger Scholarship for Virginia Beach Public Library employees who are pursuing additional education in the field of Library Science.

George Mason Award: Fran Freimarck

In her more than thirty-year career as a Virginia librarian, Fran Freimarck proved herself to be a strong advocate for library support, on both a local and statewide level. Ms. Freimarck is highly respected for her ability to provide the best resources and customer services possible during times of stretched budgets, while building strong alliances with county officials and State legislatures in order to promote an understanding about the importance of the library’s role in the community. As a result, four new libraries and a county have been added to the Pamunkey Regional Library’s service area, library technology has remained consistently current, and professional reference librarians have been added to train the staff on customer service models and reference resources. In addition to this, Ms. Freimarck has ensured the library’s professional development budget will generously allow staff to take part in professional organizations, conferences, and workshops. In her tenure, Ms. Freimarck has shown to the community, to the county governments, and to the state legislature not only what a library system can be and how it can serve its citizens, but with equal importance she has also demonstrated how valuable a Library Director can be in her inspiration, dedication, and service to her Board, her staff, and her patrons.
Carole Boston Weatherford, Jefferson Cup Winner

2008 Jefferson Cup Winner, Birmingham, 1963 author Carole Boston Weatherford will speak. Birmingham, 1963 is a prose poem responding to the church bombing that killed four young girls. Black and white photographs illuminate the words that personalize this event. The author’s note documents the facts that the fictional narrator experiences. Spare, stark, evocative. Every library should have this book; no one can read it and remain unmoved. Birmingham, 1963 can spark dialogue about race, about our shared American history, about faith, about humanity.

Books by New York Times best-selling author Carole Boston Weatherford have been honored with the Caldecott Honor, Coretta Scott King Award, the NAACP Image Award, the Lee Bennett Hopkins Poetry Award, the Jefferson Cup, and the Carter G. Woodson Award from National Council for the Social Studies. Her more than two dozen children’s books include Moses: When Harriet Tubman Led Her People to Freedom; Remember the Bridge: Poems of a People; Birmingham, 1963; Before John Was a Jazz Giant: A Song of John Coltrane; and Becoming Billie Holiday. She teaches at Fayetteville State University in North Carolina.

The Changing Face of the College Campus (Sponsored by VLACRL)

From perusing the 2008 WICHE report (http://www.wiche.edu/policy/knocking/1992-2022/knocking_complete_book.pdf) on projected demographic trends in college enrollments, it’s clear that Latino populations will make up a growing percentage of college attendees in the coming years. In Virginia, the percentage of public high school graduates who are Hispanic is projected to jump from 5.7% to 13.8% over the next ten years, while the percentage of White non-Hispanics is projected to fall from 63.5% to 54.3%. While these changes may not be as drastic in Virginia as in many other states, they will certainly have an impact on campuses. Mario Ascencio, immediate past president of REFORMA (The National Association to Promote Library and Information Services to Latinos and the Spanish Speaking) and the Visual Arts Liaison Librarian for University Libraries at George Mason, will talk about how university and college libraries can better serve this fast-growing population in our communities.

Presenters: Mario Ascencio, George Mason University and Cristina D. Ramirez, Virginia Commonwealth University Library

THURSDAY 1:15-2:00

Auditorium

2009 Legislative Session—Cutback or Collaboration

Leaders in the General Assembly will discuss the status of public libraries in Virginia, focusing on funding issues and legislative support. Their discussion will include what they perceive have been barriers to the success of recent library legislative initiatives and present their candid recommendations for strategies that can be employed by the library community to increase support of legislators for funding and sustaining libraries that serve Virginia citizens.

Presenter: Bette Dillehay, Chair, VLA Legislative Committee

Bridging the Divide: Libraries Transform Communities (Sponsored by Region 3)
Libraries build communities, foster civic engagement, and transform communities. Libraries can promote thoughtful civil discourse and provide neutral meeting space for citizens addressing sometimes divisive civic issues and choices. This session will introduce ways that libraries can help citizens discover new and innovative solutions to problems and build community through public deliberation. Learn how to develop citizen forums, inform citizens about complex issues and how to use public library resources. Become familiar with the deliberative dialogue method for conducting discussions and understand how this form of public library involvement benefits the citizen, the community and the library.

From Mr. and Mrs. Bobo Jones to Unwind. Where is YA literature going?
Young Adult literature is filled with milestone books that changed its complexion over the years. Judy Blume, M.E. Kerr, Barbara Worsba, and Susan Beth Pfeffer, to name a few, have opened the doors to subjects previously banned. But, what is happening now? We have Wake, Gem X, The Rainbow Party, Fearless, Unwind, Life as We Knew It, The Gossip Girls, The Luxe, and The Boy in the Striped Pajamas. Let’s look at these books, the changes we are seeing and how they affect what our teens read. Bring your favorite new YA title to discuss, if you wish. We need to know and understand the new directions of this genre.

Mission Possible: Leadership Training Throughout the Commonwealth
The panel presentation will provide an update of the VLA Leadership Development Forum, whose mission is “to promote and enhance the delivery of library services in the Commonwealth through the development, support, and encouragement of library leaders on all levels and in all types of libraries in Virginia.” Specifically, the panel will present the findings of the February Survey and how the results influenced the leadership training plan that will be offered throughout the Commonwealth. Members will have an opportunity to ask questions and to offer suggestions for making the training accessible and affordable to all potential leaders.

Presenters: Connie Gilman, Prince William Public Library System; Elizabeth Hensley, Culpeper County Public Library and Cindy Church, The Library of Virginia

Presenters: Tammy Coulter, Mary Binda and Clare Reilly, Augusta County Library
Remarkable Scheduling

How could library staff scheduling be remarkable? How about tossing out the paper timesheets, spreadsheets, and never making phone calls when a library employee calls in sick? How about letting your schedule fix itself while you sit back and relax? Aesop is the only system that lets your employees use the web and phone to access their real-time schedule, search and accept open shifts, and schedule absences, all while an administrator enjoys full visibility through real-time reporting.

The active schedule may not be the norm, but it is remarkable.

<td>The practice of using a social network to establish and enhance relationships based on some common ground-shared interests, related skills, or a common geographic location is as old as human societies. Social networking has flourished due to the ease of connecting on the Web. OCLC’s latest membership report explores this web of social participation and cooperation on the internet and how it may impact the library’s role in the public sphere, including: an overview of social networking and social media Web sites; evaluation of the behaviors, values and expectations of participants and review of related privacy and trust issues. This session will present the findings of the report to assist librarians in understanding the values and social networking habits of the people they serve. Presenter: Cal Shepard, SOLINET</td>

<td>Research resources at Monticello’s Jefferson Library are given enhanced cataloging in our TJ-Portal online catalog—“Jazzed-up MARC.” The enhancements allow internet users to discover obscure and unusual items not typically found in library catalogs. The Library also has hybrid information in the form of recorded human knowledge made available in the TJ Wiki online encyclopedia. Many links between the Portal and the Wiki facilitate users’ ability to explore, interpret, and learn. This session will demonstrate exceptional information delivery with MARC enhancements and an open source wiki tool. Presenter: Jack Robertson, Thomas Jefferson Foundation</td>

Texting at the Reference Desk! Implementing an SMS-to-email Service for Mobile Patrons
Increasingly, our potential users are communicating and finding information via mobile devices. How can libraries best serve these individuals wherever they are? The University of Virginia Library explores one model for mobile reference service. By partnering with Upside Wireless, we enable users to send text messages to a phone number that is linked to our reference email, and then receive replies as text messages from our reference email. In this way our Short Message Service (SMS) follows our users’ normal mode of texting and is also integrated into existing reference workflow.

The Library of Virginia and the League of Women Voters of Virginia: The Evolution of a New Program to Empower the Commonwealth’s Citizens on General Assembly Information
This presentation will discuss how—prompted by the League of Women Voters of Virginia—the Library of Virginia is developing a new program to offer librarians across the state training on the rich resources available from the General Assembly web site and the online Legislative Information System (LIS). A “companion” session—Uncovering the General Assembly Web Site to Better Engage Your Library Patrons—gives an abbreviated version of the training program that resulted from this partnership. Taken together, the two sessions will illustrate how a library-community partnership resulted in a training program to benefit public librarians across the commonwealth.

Presenters: Suzy Szasz Palmer, The Library of Virginia and Olga Hernandez, League of Women Voters of Virginia

FRIDAY 1:45-2:30

More Cowbells Baby: What we learned from Saturday Night Live About How to Provide Library Service to a Transient Military Population
Three libraries (school, public and military) work together to provide literacy support to transient military students and their families. This workshop will examine the process of implementing a successful grant-funded partnership program. We discuss the grant process, problems/solutions working with three large government agencies, and types of programs provided to the community.

Presenters: Lory Monaco-Stevenson, Ursula Reilly and Nancy Rowland, Fort Belvoir Elementary School

FRIDAY 1:45-3:30
Room 16

AACR2, RDA, & FRBR: It’s a Brave New Cataloging World!
The Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, 2nd edition (AACR2) is in the process of being replaced by a new standard called RDA, or Resource Description and Access. When complete, RDA will provide a new set of guidelines and instructions that will cover description and access for resources in traditional and digital formats. RDA is based on the FRBR (Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records) model, so it’s important to understand FRBR as well. This workshop will provide an overview of FRBR, an update on RDA, and a discussion of how libraries and library catalogs will be affected.

Presenter: Dr. Robert Ellett, Joint Forces Staff College
Teaching Library Instruction to the Millennial Generation
The presentation will discuss the characteristics of the Millennial Generation, and how it compares to the Generation X and Baby Boomer generations. It will investigate the special needs and wants of this group with regard to library instruction. How do we as instructors reach this technology savvy age group that craves more group interaction in learning and is current on technological trends like instant messaging, social networking sites, and downloading presentations to their iPods? We will discuss active learning techniques and new technological innovations from Library 2.0 that appeal to this generation.

Presenters: Katherine Absher and Mary Rose Amidjaya, Marymount University

Libraries Can be the “Anchor Stores” in Town Centers—Three Case Studies
The new award winning Rockville, Prince Frederick, and Hopewell Libraries are operating as “Anchor Stores” and destinations in their respective Town Centers. These new focal points engage library visitors, draw people to the Town Center, and inspire surrounding development. Learn how the Library can be a catalyst in your community.

Presenters: John Hill, AIA and Melanie Hennigan, AIA LEED, Grimm + Parker Architects

Sharing Links: A Librarian’s Guide to Social Bookmarking
Looking for new ways to share recommended websites on popular topics or academic subject areas? Social bookmarking tools such as Del.icio.us, Furl, and CiteULike offer dynamic alternatives to categorize and publicize your recommended websites without knowing HTML or reprinting handouts. Learn how to get started!

Presenter: Jon Ritterbush, Regent University Library

Discovering the General Assembly Web Site to Better Engage Your Library Patrons
This presentation will increase awareness of the variety and types of information provided by the General Assembly’s Web site to the citizens of Virginia. We will take a brief tour that will include the Visitors Guide, Citizens Guide, Capitol Classroom and Who’s My Legislator. In addition, we will show how to encourage citizen participation by demonstrating the tools provided by the General Assembly Web site and the online Legislative Information System (LIS). Come learn how to empower your community of library patrons to actively participate in Virginia’s legislative process.

Presenters: Mary Clark and Mary Dessypris, Library of Virginia
